Shot Through the Heart

Author's Notes:
Yay my first Drabble! Hope you like it while I work on another tale. Have fun!

My birthday and I haven't been given anything as special as this.

We're on stage, those millions of fans screaming for us. They know it's not an average day. Nor does he.

As I spoke to the crowd, he patted my shoulder and began to play. Such a skilled solo, full of effects done by pushing and pulling guitar parts. I was just mind blown.

When I thought he finished, I threw myself on him, aiming a kiss on his cheek. Failed. Our lips collapsed and a shiver was sent through our spine, but then a sensational relax feeling.

I Missed the target...or not.
